

Faculty of Philology UO
English Philology – ACADEMIC PROFILE
MA level studies
MODULE LEARNING OUTCOMES
since 2019-2020

MODULE 1: Literary studies

Symbol	Description of the learning outcome	Reference to the PQF
Knowledge: Graduate
m-W-1	has a nuanced understanding of literary studies with its specific research paradigms (historical, interpretative, critical), analytic traditions (formalist, structuralist, poststructuralist and beyond) and prioritized research orientations (comparative analysis of different literary traditions, literary translation, literary theory and criticism, reception of literature)	P7S_WG
m-W-2	has a detailed knowledge of selected methods of analyzing literary texts and practices (in their diachronic and synchronic aspects) with a focus on the readerly experience and critical interpretation	P7S_WK
Skills: Graduate
m-U-1	has the ability to search for, analyze, select, evaluate and synthesize information related to literature by consulting various academic and popular sources and tools, including digitalized online repositories	P7S_UW
m-U-2	can communicate about own research and reading on a range of selected topics within literary studies in speech and writing applying the conventions and styles of academic presentation (English for Academic Purposes, Proficiency in English/C2)	P7S_UK
Social competences: Graduate
m-K-1	is ready to set priorities in their in-class collaboration and self-study, particularly in managing the time and resources while doing research in literary studies, following the supervisor's guidance in designing own research project, and applying formal requirements for UO diploma papers	P7S_KO
m-K-2	is ready to express their reasoned opinions, including critique, on selected academic issues related to literary research, as well as think and act resourcefully and creatively in relation to their research project and their MA thesis.	P7S_KK

Faculty of Philology UO
English Philology – ACADEMIC PROFILE
MA level studies
MODULE LEARNING OUTCOMES
since 2019-2020

MODULE 2: Translation studies

Symbol	Description of the learning outcome	Reference to the PQF
Knowledge: Graduate
m-W-1	has an in-depth knowledge of the theoretical assumptions underlying research on translation, and has a thorough understanding of Translation Studies as an interdiscipline;	P7S_WG
m-W-2	has a detailed knowledge of the analytical concepts and research methods, approaches and strategies of Translation Studies, and is able to apply them appropriately;	P7S_WK
Skills: Graduate
m-U-1	has the ability to search for, analyze, select, evaluate, and synthesize information related to translation by consulting various academic and popular sources and tools, including electronic ones, apply advanced techniques for collecting data, and produce high-quality translations;	P7S_UW
m-U-2	can fluently and accurately communicate, in speech and in writing, the results of their research on selected aspects of translation, applying the conventions and coherent style of academic presentation (Proficiency in English/C2);	P7S_UK
Social competences: Graduate
m-K-1	is ready to set priorities in their in-class translation practice and research procedures, and respectfully and constructively hold discussions and collaborate with colleagues;	P7S_KO
m-K-2	is ready to express their well-reasoned critique on selected aspects of translation, is ready to act creatively and efficiently in relation to their research project in own MA thesis, and is aware of the responsibilities of a translator	P7S_KK

Faculty of Philology UO
English Philology – ACADEMIC PROFILE
MA level studies
MODULE LEARNING OUTCOMES
since 2019-2020

MODULE 3: Cultural studies

Symbol	Description of the learning outcome	Reference to the PQF
Knowledge: Graduate
m-W-1	has a nuanced understanding of cultural studies as an interdisciplinary field of studies with its specific research paradigms (descriptive, normative, critical), analytic traditions (qualitative, quantitative) and prioritized research orientations (media and communication, film and representation, cultural geography, race/gender studies)	P7S_WG
m-W-2	has a detailed knowledge of selected methods of researching cultural products and practices (also in a comparative perspective) particularly from the philological perspective with a focus on expression, representation and reproduction of culture in texts/discourses/media/films	P7S_WK
Skills: Graduate
m-U-1	has the ability to search for, analyze, select, evaluate and synthesize information related to culture by consulting various academic and popular sources and tools, including digitalized online repositories	P7S_UW
m-U-2	can communicate about own research and reading on a range of selected topics within cultural studies in speech and writing applying the conventions and styles of academic presentation (English for Academic Purposes, Proficiency in English/C2)	P7S_UK
Social competences: Graduate
m-K-1	is ready to set priorities in their in-class collaboration and self-study, particularly in managing the time and resources while doing research in cultural studies, following the supervisor's guidance in designing a research project, and applying formal requirements for UO diploma projects	P7S_KO
m-K-2	is ready to express their reasoned opinions, including critique, on selected academic issues related to cultural research, as well as think and act resourcefully and creatively in relation to their project and their MA thesis.	P7S_KK

Faculty of Philology UO
English Philology – ACADEMIC PROFILE
MA level studies
MODULE LEARNING OUTCOMES
since 2019-2020

MOLULE 4: Linguistics

Symbol	Description of the learning outcome	Reference to the PQF
Knowledge: Graduate
m-W-1	has a nuanced understanding of studies in linguistics, analytic traditions (qualitative, quantitative) and prioritized research orientations	P7S_WG
m-W-2	has a detailed knowledge of selected methods of researching linguistic products and practices (also in a comparative perspective) particularly from the philological perspective	P7S_WK
Skills: Graduate
m-U-1	has the ability to search for, analyze, select, evaluate and synthesize information related to linguistics by consulting various academic and popular sources and tools, including digitalized online repositories	P7S_UW
m-U-2	can communicate about own research and reading on a range of selected topics within linguistics in speech and writing applying the conventions and styles of academic presentation (English for Academic Purposes, Proficiency in English/C2)	P7S_UK
Social competences: Graduate
m-K-1	is ready to set priorities in their in-class collaboration and self-study, particularly in managing the time and resources while doing research in linguistics, following the supervisor's guidance in designing a research project, and applying formal requirements for UO diploma projects	P7S_KO
m-K-2	is ready to express their reasoned opinions, including critique, on selected academic issues related to research in linguistics, as well as think and act resourcefully and creatively in relation to their project.	P7S_KK